※ Explanation regarding the appropriate use of forecasts of business results

The forward-looking statements made in this document, including the aforementioned forecasts, are based on all information available to the management at the time of this document's release. Actual results may differ from the results anticipated in the statements.

1. Qualitative Information and Financial Statements

(1) Qualitative Information on Consolidated Results

The business environment for the Toyobo Group in Japan through the end of the first quarter (April 1, 2013 to June 30, 2013) was characterized by the appearance of signs of recovery as the high values of the yen experienced a downward correction and stock prices rose against a background of economic policies that were initiated after the change in Japan's government administration. On the other hand, in the international economy, although moderate recovery continued in the United States, growth slowed in China and the newly emerging countries of Asia—which had been driving forces for growth—and the economies of Europe were stagnant because of the prolonged debt crises. As a result of these and other factors, uncertainties about future directions persisted.

Amid this operating environment, the Toyobo Group continued its activities aimed at becoming “The category leader, continuing to create new value that contributes to society in the environment, life science, and high-function products fields.” Accordingly, Toyobo is proceeding with activities targeted at further expanding its businesses by developing specialty products and increasing their sales in domestic and overseas markets. In the environment field, Toyobo's reverse osmosis (RO) membrane elements for seawater desalination have been selected for use in the largest desalination plant in Saudi Arabia. Shipments of these membrane elements have begun. In the life science field, Toyobo successfully developed and began to market “Nerbridge”, the first medical treatment device in Japan for the regeneration of damaged peripheral nerves. In the high-function products businesses, Toyobo is focusing on the expansion of sales of new products in the films business, including an industrial film for LCDs with new optical properties and a shrinkable film for PET bottle labels that is thinner and stronger as well as contributes to increased productivity. In addition, Toyobo worked to further expand its overseas business activities. To gain a foothold in the shrink film market in China, which is expected to expand in the years ahead, Toyobo invested, together with a South Korean film manufacturer, in a joint venture in China.

As previously mentioned, the Toyobo Group is addressing business issues as well as implementing measures and improvements that will lead to further growth and expansion. As a result, sales in the first quarter of the fiscal year increased ¥2.2 billion (2.7%) in comparison with the same period of the previous fiscal year, to ¥85.3 billion, and operating income up ¥3.0 billion (131.5%), to ¥5.2 billion. Ordinary income increased ¥3.3 billion (182.4%), to ¥5.1 billion, and net income for the first quarter down ¥2.5 billion (501.1%), ¥3.0 billion.

Results by business segment were as follows.

Films and Functional Polymers

Within this segment, in the films business, although sales in the packaging films business reported a weak performance, sales of industrial films for LCDs held strong. In the functional polymers business, sales principally to the automobile industry were generally steady. Compared with the same quarter of the previous year, sales increased and operating income increased.

In the packaging films business, operating conditions were difficult because of the sluggish shipments across the industry as a whole and the delay in revising product prices to higher levels to offset the rise in raw materials prices. In the industrial films business, sales held firm, driven by exports to South Korea and Taiwan as well as domestic sales for smartphones and tablet PCs. In the functional polymers business, sales of industrial adhesive “VYLON” for electronic components to China were adversely affected by the stagnation in the Chinese market, and operating conditions were difficult. In the engineering plastics business, sales, principally for automotive uses, held firm especially to the North American market.

As a result, sales in this segment increased ¥2.4 billion (6.7%) from the same quarter of the previous fiscal year, to ¥37.9 billion, but operating income increased ¥0.8 (44.6%), to ¥2.4 billion.

Industrial Materials

Within this segment, the high-performance fibers business and materials for consumer and industrial uses showed favorable performance. However, the impact on sales of the decision to withdraw from the tire cord business and the effect of the prolonged stagnation in China on environment-related businesses resulted in a decrease in sales and an increase in operating income.

In the airbag fabrics business, performance in volume terms held generally firm because of the recovery in sales to China and other factors. Regarding the tire cord business, Toyobo made the decision to exit this business in December of the fiscal year under review, and this resulted in a major decline in sales. In the high-performance fibers business, sales of ultra-high-strength polyethylene fiber “Dyneema” for ropes used on ships were favorable, but growth in sales of “ZYLON,” for use in heat-resistant materials and other applications—which had been favorable—weakened. In the functional filters business, operating conditions continued to be difficult as users in China postponed their investments owing to the stagnation in the European markets. Among materials for consumer and industrial uses, sales of “BREATHAIR,” a functional cushion material, reported substantial expansion in volume terms, principally to the bedding market, and overall sales showed major expansion.

As a result, sales in this segment decreased ¥0.1 billion (0.6%) from the same quarter of the previous year, to ¥17.2 billion, and operating income increased ¥0.0 (1.1%), to ¥1.0 billion.

Life Science

In this segment, because of the favorable performance of the bioproducts business, the commencement of sales of “Nerbridge” a conduit for regeneration of peripheral nerve in the medical devices business, and other factors, sales increased year on year, and operating income increased.

In the bioproducts business, sales of diagnostic enzymes, which are mainstay products in this business, continued to be favorable, resulting in a gain in sales. In the medical products business, sales of the contract manufacturing of pharmaceuticals business continued to be firm, partly because of the start-up of new production facilities. In the medical devices business, sales of new product “Nerbridge” continued to be favorable. In the functional membrane business, although recovery in sales of membranes for medical use in the domestic market was delayed, sales exceeded the level of the same period of the previous year. Shipments to Japanese and overseas users of RO membrane elements for replacement of membranes at existing plants were favorable.

As a result, sales in this segment increased ¥0.4 billion (8.3%) from the same quarter of the previous year, to ¥5.8 billion, and operating income increased ¥0.7 billion (171.9%), to ¥1.2 billion.

Textiles

Sales in this segment decreased compared with the same period of the previous year, and operating income increased.

Sales of sports apparel in volume terms decreased, and the decline in the value of the yen caused a deterioration in income because of the higher cost of products manufactured overseas. In the textiles business, sales of materials for traditional Arabic menswear continued to be favorable, and income also improved because of the downward correction in the high values of the yen. Sales of acrylic fiber to China remained firm.

As a result, sales in this segment decreased ¥0.7 billion (3.8%) from the same quarter of the previous year, to ¥18.7 billion, and operating income increased ¥1.5 billion, to ¥0.8 billion.

(Compared with operating loss of ¥0.7 billion for the first quarter of the previous fiscal year.)

Real Estate and Other Businesses

These segments include infrastructure-related businesses such as real estate, engineering, information processing services, and logistics services. Results were essentially in line with plan.

As a result, sales in these segments increased ¥0.3 billion (4.6%) from the same period of the previous fiscal year to ¥5.7 billion, and operating income increased ¥0 billion (6.0%) to ¥0.5 billion.

(2) Qualitative Information on the Consolidated Financial Position

Assets, Liabilities and Net Assets

Total assets decreased ¥0.7 billion (0.1%) over the end of the previous fiscal year, to ¥446.8 billion. This was due mainly to decrease in cash and deposits.

Total liabilities decreased ¥2.7 billion (0.9%), to ¥289.2 billion. This was mainly because of a decrease in current liabilities.

Total net assets increased ¥2.1 billion (1.3%) to ¥157.6 billion. This was due mainly because of an increase in the foreign currency translation adjustment account, although retained earnings decreased by paying dividends.

(3) Qualitative Information on Consolidated Forecasts

The performance of the Toyobo Group during the first quarter was generally as forecast. Regarding the outlook for performance through the end of the second quarter (interim period) and the forecast for the full fiscal year, no changes have been made in the outlook announced on May 9, 2013.
